4-H Gets It All Together

Several years ago, the phrase, "generation gap" was bounced around by adults and young people alike. Youths were accused of not wanting to communicate with their elders, while their elders were accused of not wanting to talk to their youngsters.

Today, the "generation gap" has eased and both adults and kids can take some of the credit. Now, young people and adults are working together to solve mutual problems.

This sort of cooperation is well demonstrated through 4-H, which currently is observing 1973 National 4-H Week, October 7-13, keynoted with the theme "4-H Gets It All Together."

Across the country, five and a half million boys and girls, ages 9 to 19, a half million volunteer adult leaders and thousands of Extension Service personnel are involved in 4-H. Working together they are putting the 4-H Week theme into action, in many ways helping to make their communities better places in which to live.

The timeliness of their efforts is indicated by the current 4-H emphasis on helping educate communities on ways to economically operate vehicles and to conserve electricity during the current energy shortage.

Other 4-H groups are helping to ease the food shortage by supporting agricultural production and marketing efforts. Also, drug abuse programs, improving the environment, and community development planning are being given a high priority in 4-H programs.

Boys and girls, of different backgrounds, philosophies and lifestyles, working together with adults to solve common problems – that's the 4-H picture in 1973. 4-H brings together youths from all racial, economic, social and cultural backgrounds. Rural and city youngsters have an opportunity to interact, communicate and share ideas.

4-H is strong, and growing in all areas of the fifty states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. Urban 4-H is expanding too. In fact, the major cities in the U.S., all have active 4-H programs.

Low income and handicapped youngsters are involved in 4-H through flexible programs and projects specifically geared to their needs. And 4-H'ers have always aided younger boys and girls in all 4-H program areas.

4-H is reaching out to bring more people together "to make the best better" in new ways. 4-H television series on nutrition and nuclear energy are premiering this year on hundreds of stations. These and other 4-H efforts will reach hundreds of thousands of young people who've never been exposed to the 4-H program before.

Helping 4-H'ers and their leaders "get it all together" are business organizations, foundations, civic groups and private individuals, who aid the 4-H program. On the

Helping 4-H'ers and their leaders "get it all together" are business organizations, foundations, civic groups and private individuals, who aid the 4-H program. On the national scene alone, over $3 million dollars is being expended in 1973 to aid 4-H programs through the National 4-H Service Committee.

Contributing importantly too, are over 31 million Americans who are 4-H alumni. These former 4-H'ers get together with young people in 4-H programs at all levels.

Working together, growing together, learning together – that's what 4-H is all about in 1973. And we support the efforts of the total 4-H program, nationwide. William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation recently remarked that "The 4-H Clubs of America are an excellent vehicle for developing sound, conscientious citizens."

We agree with Mr. Kuhfuss' observations, and salute 4-H'ers, their leaders and their friends on this occasion of 1973 National 4-H Week.

We encourage youths to explore opportunities for developing their talents and skills through 4-H. And parents and others may wish to volunteer their services as leaders or program consultants. Further information on 4-H may be obtained from county extension offices or volunteer 4-H leaders in local communities.

We feel that through 4-H, young people and adults can "Get It All Together" for the benefit of all Americans.

The Pastor Speaks

"All Wool & A Yard Wide"

Do you know what this title means? It was a popular one years ago. I came across it recently in my reading.

The Apostle Paul loved the Philippian Church very much. He said "I thank my God upon every remembrance of you. Always in every prayer of mine for you making request with joy . . . Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ." (Phil. 1:3-6). The church at Philippi was a genuine active. They could be depended upon. God had begun a good work in them, and they were being depended upon by Paul to keep on keeping on.

I believe Timothy is another example of one who is "all wool and a yard wide." Paul says of Timothy, he "will naturally care for your state." (3:20) "Naturally" has the ideas of genuinely, faithfully, sincerely, as opposed to "spurious". That is, Timothy was "all wool and a yard wide." He was the genuine article. He could be dependent upon. "Care for" is from a word which has the following ideas, "give one's thought to a matter, seek to promote one's interests." Therefore I think it can could be depended upon to have a real concern about the welfare of the Philippians.

God give us all wool and a yard wide Christians. The genuine article is needed today. May Christ be received into your heart by simply asking Him to come in and cleanse you.

Donations To ACRS Come From Auction Sale

When Bill Sperry - Auctioneer and a member of the Appomattox County Rescue Squad held an auction sale for the Family G. Slider Estate on Saturday in Buckingham County with the help of A. A. Bohannon, former member of ACRS, they collected $92.00 in contributions from people at the sale for the Rescue Squad Fund.

We think the people in our adjoining county - Buckingham - should be thanked for helping with the fund drive for our county. It is always rewarding to hear of such friendly "folks" who are willing to help a good cause.

Comment on the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday, October 14, 1973.

Topic: Reconciliation through Christ

Scripture: Romans 5

But God shows his love for us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us. Romans 5:8.

Three logic Christian truths are comprehended in the verse of Scripture quoted at the beginning of this comment: people - and Paul significantly makes this first person- are sinners; God loves people, although they are sinners, and sent His Son to make their redemption possible; Christ died for people. Through His death, Christ made atonement with God for the sins of all people, to make possible redemption and reconciliation for all, and He did this in compliance with the divine plan.

Although man through disobedience alienated himself from God, God did not cease to love him and sought to reclaim him from the sin he had chosen as his way of life. The Scriptures, in their accounts of God's revelation, give an unfolding of their concept of God's love.

In his letter to the Christians at Rome, Paul gives, as vividly as human words can, a picture of the tremendous love which makes it possible for one to die for another. A parent might give his life for a child, a friend might give his life to save a friend, a person with concern for human life might give his life to save even a stranger as in going to rescue a person in danger of drowning and losing his life in the attempt, love and concern are the motivation. Christ gave His life in order that people could saved. In God's order, only a perfect sacrifice was adequate to make atonement for man's sin, and the one perfect sacrifice was God's Son, who came incarnate in Jesus Christ.

The four Gospels and other books of the New Testament record the historical fact of Christ's death. But this is not all to said about His death. "Christ died-- for us," Paul wrote in explaining why Christ died. The legal explanation may be that He was crucified because the Jewish leaders, fearful of his growing influence among the people, accused him of claiming to be king to the Roman governor, not daring to suffering produces endurance, endurance produced character, character produces hope, and hope does not disappoint us because of what God's love has accomplished for us. Thus through a refining process the individual's life is enriched and made better, because of God's love.

Card of Thanks

I would like to take this means of thanking my many friends and relatives for the prayers, cards, flowers, visits, food and all acts of kindness shown to me and my wife during my recent stay in the hospital and since my return home. Everyone has been just wonderful to both of us and a special thank you to all the pastors of the local churches for their kindness. We can't personally thank you at this time as my wife is quite busy caring for my needs so please accept our sincere thanks for all you have done for us. May God bless each of you. L. L.
